

Fact Sheet

Description:	Cambridge Beaches is a place of wide-open spaces, turquoise filled views, choices, a place to disconnect from the stresses of today's world and connect with each other, to truly "chill". To be active, or do nothing, well. It's a place where time stands still, and time is measured by sunrises and sunsets, long intimate strolls on private pink or white sandy beaches. A hideaway for couples to share a romantic tryst on a private island or sunbathe the day away on a secluded pool deck, overlooking an infinity pool and Mangrove Bay. It's a resort offering endless places to be alone, together, a sanctuary away from the endless bustle and stress of everyday life, yet also somewhere to be active when you want. A place of transformation for the world-weary mind, body and soul, a place of peace and serenity, offering unassuming elegance that boasts of being Bermuda's most romantic resort; this is the international allure of Cambridge Beaches. A resort of immense history which has welcomed the dynamics of the new and mixed them with the traditions of old, creating an alluring cocktail of experiences fit for any age.
History:	Sourced from Bermuda's National Trust, it was clear that in 1663 Captain Florentius Seymour (Governor of Bermuda; 1663-1668) was renting 18 acres at the northern end, in addition to further 18 acres, southward, that he already owned. A Royal Gazette classified dated July 22, 1826, states, "Offered for sales 15 acres and a house (Pegem) situated in, and forming the northern boundary of Mangrove Bay that belonged to the estate of John Outebridge Seymour."
Location:	Cambridge Beaches is a mere two-hour plane ride from the East Coast (USA) and less than seven from the U.K, with excellent connections from Europe. This hidden gem resides on the west coast of Bermuda, situated flawlessly on a 30-acre peninsula encircled by panoramic views of the water, several private beaches, and a quick ferry ride to Bermuda's capital; the city of Hamilton.
